

ACADEMIA LATINITATIS

LATIN for students of CANON LAW

EALING ABBEY, LONDON
www.thelatinlanguage.org/london

Canon Law students at KU Leuven are encouraged to study Latin during three two-week sessions:

January 6-17, 2020: Beginning and Intermediate Latin

March 23 - 2, April 2020: Intermediate and Advanced Latin

August 17-28, 2020: Beginning, Intermediate, Advanced Latin

Fee: £320 per two-week session, £750 for all three, a saving of £210.

The January and March-April courses are demand driven, so please write to express your interest before 30 October 2019: il@liturgyinstitute.org.

Beginners: From the first encounter with the Latin language, students read and work with Latin texts. Learn:

- ♦ the verb in all times of the indicative and commands: active, passive, deponent;
- ♦ Nouns, adjectives, pronouns, prepositions;
- ♦ Relative clauses, conjunctions.

Intermediate: Read texts from every era and genre of literature, including canonical texts and opinions. Learn:

- ♦ Forms and usages of the subjunctive;
- ♦ Sequence of tenses
- ♦ Participles' natural meaning, ablative absolute.

Advanced: Read scriptural, liturgical, patristic, canonical, magisterial, scholastic, musical texts.

Learn: ♦ indirect discourse ♦ object sentences

- ♦ gerunds and gerundives ♦ conditionals.

Reginald Foster is “One of the world’s foremost scholars in Latin” (BBC News 2016). His method, developed while teaching in Rome for forty years, is presented in Ossa Latinitatis Sola. Teaching from his method, we eliminate terminology and complicated introductions to the language. We emphasise what things mean and how the language functions with proper understanding and accuracy.
